Field: Hockey Players

In field hockey games, players move the ball by using a wooden stick that is curved at one end. The object of the game is to score goals by striking the ball into the opponent's goal. Field hockey is played on several levels, including club play, collegiate competition, and international tournaments such as the Olympic Games, the World Cup, and the Pan American Games.

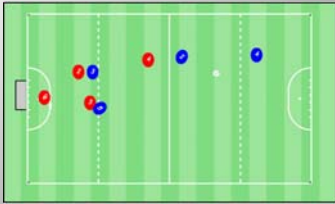

Ice Hockey

Ice Hockey, fast-paced winter sport in which two opposing teams of skaters use long, curved sticks to try to drive a hard rubber disk into each other's goal. A rough, action-packed game, ice hockey is considered one of the fastest of all sports. It is played in about 30 countries, principally in North America, Europe, and the countries of the former Union of Soviet Socialist Republics (USSR). Ice hockey is especially popular in Canada, where the modern game developed. Other forms of the sport include field hockey and street hockey.
